Wedding venue arsonists jailed

BY JENNIE BAKER

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

TWO Haverhill men who burned down a 400-year-old wedding venue in a "cruel and calculated attack" have been locked up.

Thomas Richardson and Mark Hall were jailed at Cambridge Crown Court on Friday for starting the fire which destroyed historic barns and the pavilion at Chilford Hall.

The pair, both of Pipers Close, torched the Linton venue early on June 13 while owner, Fiona Alper, and her son, Ben, were asleep in the main house nearby.

The court previously heard Richardson had been sacked from Chilford Hall in 2009 for stealing and drinking on the job.

Christopher Morgan, prosecuting, said 105 out of the 120 events booked to take place at the time of the fire had been cancelled and the blaze had also hit employees and local businesses.

He said: "Many of the staff were known to the [Alper] family, they were the extended family.

"Many of them worked there for a number of years and as a result of the fire, although efforts were made to provide them with some work, ultimately the vast majority of staff have lost their employment."

Mark Shelley, mitigating for Hall, 28, said he was an autistic man with very low IQ and had been led by Richardson.

He said: "He cannot drive, he has no means of transport. He knows nothing about Chilford Hall."

Adam Budsworth, mitigating for Richardson, said the 27-year-old was the only one to blame but he had entered an early guilty plea and had personality and mental health issues.

He said: "This was an offence born out of vengeance, as it were and committed in drink and for which he has expressed the deepest remorse."

Judge Gareth Hawkesworth said Richardson had subjected Hall to his "malign influence" but he believed Hall understood right and wrong and the consequences of starting fires, although his ability to resist Richardson's influence was diminished by alcohol.

The judge told them: "Mrs Alper was widowed in 2002. Mr Alper had devoted the latter part of his life to building up the business, largely for the benefit of the community as a whole.

"I can barely grasp the enormity of the emotional trauma you caused to Mrs Alper and her son, watching her husband's work go up in flames."

Richardson was jailed for five years and four months with a four-year extended period of licence.

He also admitted drink-driving and was sentenced to six months in prison to be served concurrently, disqualified for four years and told his licence would be endorsed.

Hall was jailed for four years.

Watchdogs warn of scams linked to Pope's resignation

SCAMMERS may take advantage of the Pope's resignation, a trading standards group has warned.

Consumers are urged to watch out for unsolicited emails including links to Pope Benedict XVI's resignation speech or selling travel tickets to Rome or papal conclave.

Suffolk Trading Standards said news events of this magnitude often trigger scam artists trying to use it for gain.

It warned against social media sites such as Twitter and Facebook where people may request money to travel to Rome by pretending to be devout Catholics or religious historians.

A spokesperson for Trading Standards said: "Within seconds of the news breaking that Pope Benedict XVI was to resign, spam began to appear on Twitter taking advantage of the story.

"Messages using the hashtag #pope but with no connection whatsoever with the developing news story of the first Papal resignation for hundreds of years have sprung up on the social network.

"The messages all contain a link which appears to take you to a website containing adult videos."

Twitter users are asked to report any accounts obviously sending spam to the social media site.

Anyone with information about these scams is asked to call police on 101 or call Crimestoppers, anonymously, on 0800 555111.

Zoo's delight over rare albino wallaby

A RARE albino wallaby has been born at Linton Zoo.

The baby, which lacks pigment for colouring, causing pink eyes and white fur, is the latest addition at the zoo, bucking the trend for grey and brown red-necked wallabies.

Parents Kylie and Jason (named after stars Kylie Minogue and Jason Donovan, who duetted on Especially For You in the 80s), aunty Dannii and big brother Bonza looked on as the keepers were given a big surprise when the joey's head popped out of the pouch.

It is believed the family may be descended from the original white wallabies given as a gift to the Queen while on a state visit to Australia in 1962, although the albino gene had been suppressed for a number of generations until now.

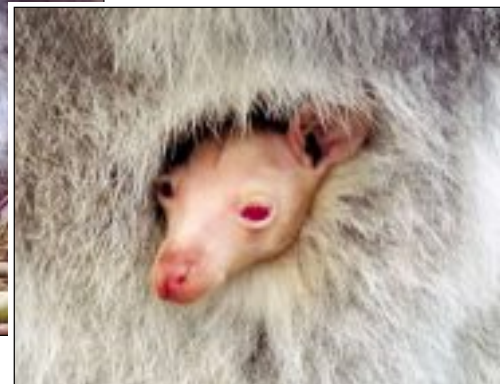

Kim Simmons, director at the zoo, said: "Although it is still snuggled up in its mum's pouch, it seems appropriate for a white wallaby to have emerged for the first time during the snowy weather. Now the little one is causing much discussion among visitors and staff as to what it should be named – we are sure that Snowy, Snow Flake or Frosty may be top of the list."

Visit www.lintonzoo.com or follow the zoo on Facebook for further updates and for half-term events.

Video footage of the rare wallaby is online at www.cambridge-news.co.uk.

Challenge set by fostering agency

A COUPLE have set up an independent fostering agency to find homes and families for children who need them.

Cheryl and Mick Jillions have opened Little Acorns Fostering at Rook Tree Barn, Great Wrattling, which is now open and ready for the challenge of placing children in care into family based foster homes.

The agency will be co-operatively owned, with its carers as shareholders, who will be provided with 24-hour support.

An official ribbon cutting ceremony will be held with Haverhill Town Mayor Pat Hanlon on an open day on Saturday, March 2.

Little Acorns is now fully focused on recruiting foster parents across East Anglia and neighbouring areas.

Cheryl is highly qualified in social care and has been involved in the industry for 27 years.

She said: "I'm really excited about this new agency as we try to tackle the shortage of foster homes for vulnerable children in the region.

"Our whole ethos is about supporting and training our carers, ensuring that we are there for them night and day to assist with this sometimes challenging but very rewarding task.

"We are going to redefine the meaning of support, having the knowledge, experience and understanding that fostering is not just between the hours of 9-5.

"I am very passionate about making their experience of being looked after the best it can be.

"There are many children in need of a family. I am encouraging members of the public who have never considered a career in fostering to contact us for an informal discussion about the role and discover the benefits and rewards it can offer."

A first in the industry, Little Acorns will be part owned by the carers themselves, as they adopt a 'John Lewis' model of working and create a business that is inclusive for everyone.

Cheryl added: "We have a great location at Rook Tree Barn where children and families can make use of our contact facilities in a safe, rural environment.

"We feel this is great for fostering as a whole but will also bring a benefit to the local community."

Shoppers aid hospice

HISTORIC Clare Priory is hosting an exclusive shopping day in aid of St Nicholas Hospice Care next month. The Shopping at Clare Priory day, on Thursday, March 14, will feature exclusive stalls and sellers, many of whose goods cannot be found on the High Street.

Artichoke Fashions, Handbag Bliss, Park Lace and Linen, and Amanda Sutherland Beautiful Accessories will be among the many exhibitors.

Refreshments and light lunches will also be available.

The event runs from 10.30am-3.30pm at Clare Priory, Ashen Road, Clare. Admission costs £3 per person, including tea, coffee or a soft drink (£2 after 1pm).

Parlour plan approved

PLANS to convert an empty pub into a funeral parlour – close to where a new care home for the elderly is to be built – have been approved despite objections.

Members of St Edmundsbury Borough Council's development control committee approved an application for alterations to the Vixen pub in Millfields Way, Haverhill.

Cllr Gordon Cox and some residents complained that it was insensitive to allow the use close to where the new home for the elderly was to be built.

However, councillors were told that change of use consent was not required and only the alterations to the building could be considered.

Man accused of stalking woman

A MAN has appeared in court accused of stalking a woman by watching her from his car with binoculars on several occasions. Nigel Proctor, 44, of Girtton Road, Haverhill, denied a charge of harassment when he appeared before magistrates in Bury St Edmunds. His case was adjourned for trial on February 26.

The offences are alleged to have happened at Norton Close and Henry Close, Haverhill, between September and December last year. Proctor was granted bail until his next appearance on condition that he does not go to Greenfields Way or Norton Road, Haverhill, and does not contact the woman or three other witnesses.

Kitchen company in bid for showroom

PLANS by a kitchen company to build a two-storey showroom with office area on a farm have been received by planners.

St Edmundsbury Borough Council has received the application from Knights Country Kitchens of Knights Farm, Stoke Road, Clare.

Thieves strike at building site

EQUIPMENT worth around £1,000 was stolen from a building site during the night.

Police are appealing for witnesses to the theft which happened between 4.30pm last Friday and 7.40am the following day, in Hamlet Road, Haverhill. Items stolen included a wacker plate.

Anyone who saw any suspicious activity in the area or who has any information should contact PC Matthew Hammill at Haverhill Police Station on 101 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

Gardener discovers old pottery

SIX miniature medieval jugs were discovered by a woman digging up tree roots in her garden.

Lesley Langley has been in touch with various specialists, including the British Museum, since she found the relics at her home in Trinity Link, Haverhill.

Lesley said: "They were approximately 18 inches down and they are between 7 to 8 centimetres in height. I took them to Moyse Hall Museum in Bury St Edmunds.

"The curator was not sure what or how old they were. He asked me to take them to Suffolk County Council archaeology department, which I did.

"They were not too sure what they were because they did not recognise the clay they were made with.

"Dr Andrew Brown and some of his colleagues sent pictures of them to the British Museum.

"They thought they looked medieval and resembled Rhenish stoneware from Germany, possibly imported for toys or ointment pots. They could be as late as the 16th century.

"I also sent pictures of them to Cambridge archaeology department. They thought they resembled grey stoneware from Seigburg from about 1500.

"Dr Brown said they did have miniatures in Roman times, but because they do not recognise the shape and form of the jugs he feels they are medieval."

Two-car collision causes tailbacks

COMMUTERS faced lengthy delays on Monday morning after a crash on a notorious stretch of road which has claimed many lives.

Two cars collided on the A1307 near Horseheath just before 7am, with one man having to be cut from his vehicle.

The road was closed and both drivers were taken to hospital. Neither suffered serious injuries.

The road was re-opened later that morning after the cars had been removed.

Chris Cullum, a regular traveller on the road and campaigner for improvements, said the crash emphasised again the need for action to be taken on the road.

He said: "It was like a lorry park along there, the traffic was backed right up to the Acorn garage at Abington.

"A lot of the lorries cannot turn round and if you are behind them you have no chance.

"People were turning off where they could, but the small villages around there cannot cope with that sort of volume of traffic."

Residents' outcry over 'sudden' yellow lines

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

RESIDENTS are furious that yellow lines appeared outside their homes without warning and are continuing to park cars there in protest.

Workers acting for Suffolk County Council turned up at Burton End in Haverhill and knocked on doors at lunchtime, asking residents to move their cars so that single yellow lines could be painted there.

Sue Warren contacted Suffolk County Council about the lines and said: "This was the first that I or any of my immediate neighbours had heard about this and we were quite shocked.

"The chap told me that they had been requested by the police.

"I asked why there was no consultation or no communication between the council and residents and was told that they put up signs on the lamp posts along Burton End in June/July time. My neighbours and I saw no such signs and, to be honest, we would not be looking for any.

"They also said they placed adverts in the public notices sections of the local newspapers, again I do not think anyone would be trawling through those notices on a weekly basis just in case something of interest was happening in their street.

"While I understood and appreciated that this is a busy road into town and that there are schools nearby, I was staggered that no one had even consulted with the residents who for years have been able to park outside their homes. There are genuine concerns that there is not enough parking around here."

Ms Warren was told residents could not appeal against the decision and would have to wait another three years for a review.

She questioned why the lines were not put down diagonally opposite where people parked, obstructing a view up the road to where a lot of traffic turns right into School Lane.

Residents also feel the resale value of their homes could be affected as they all bought their homes because they could park outside.

Nikki Marsh, who has lived in the road for more than 10 years, said no signs had been put up, so she and her neighbours were continuing to park outside their homes.

She said: "I think it is a cheek. They just appeared and nobody knew anything about it. We have got nowhere else to park and some people have two cars. We are still parking there because there are no signs up, so we are waiting to see what happens. I think it is stupid.

"My children go to Burton End School so I asked if they knew anything about it, but the head teacher was as surprised as I was."

A spokesman for Suffolk County Council said: "These restrictions have been put in place to improve visibility and safety at the junction following concerns raised by the police.

"The town and district council were consulted prior to implementation and public notices were put up on site last year.

"The zebra crossing is already protected from parking by the usual road markings and to the west on the approach to the schools and School Lane by existing single yellow lines.

"We are always happy to receive comments and suggestions from residents if they feel a better solution could be found."

Police are appealing for witnesses after the incident, which happened between 10pm last Friday and noon the next day. Anyone who has any information, should contact PC Christian Thomas at Haverhill Police Station on 101 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

Youngsters benefit from hospice grant

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A HOSPICE has received a cash boost for a programme to support bereaved youngsters.

St Nicholas Hospice Care's Nicky's Way programme has been given a £5,000 grant from the Santander Foundation's Community Plus initiative.

The cash will fund the next six-week Nicky's Way group programme, which helps to support bereaved youngsters.

Ben O'Hanlon, St Nicholas Hospice Care trusts and statutory funding officer, said: "This grant will make a big difference to bereaved children and young people and their families."

"We are grateful to Santander for supporting us."

Nicky's Way is a programme where bereaved youngsters from West Suffolk and Thetford can meet others in the same situation and start to feel less lonely and isolated.

Small groups, each of no more than six youngsters of a similar age, have the chance to share their worries, fears, hopes and feelings and ask questions alongside others in the same situation.

The groups are run by staff and trained volunteers from the hospice's family support team, and take place at the hospice building or at other places.

Group activities include creative pursuits time to talk and ask adults and a doctor questions, chances for youngsters to tell their story in different ways, an opportunity to throw things at an 'anger wall' to get their feelings out, a trip out for lunch and bowling and a treasure hunt.

A Santander spokesman said:

"Community Plus allows our staff and customers to nominate local charities that are most in need of assistance."

"We are delighted to be supporting St Nicholas Hospice Care and hope the donation makes a real difference."

Drink-driver had evening out in club

A DRINK-driver has been banned for 17 months after spending an evening in a nightclub then driving her friend home.

Kirsty Smith, from Stradishall, pleaded guilty to being over the drink-drive limit during a night out on January 23 when she attended Cambridge Magistrates' Court last Wednesday.

The 24-year-old, who is unemployed, was pulled over by officers in her blue Ford Ka on Arbury Road, Cambridge, after she was seen swerving in the road at 2.30am.

Laura Mardell, prosecuting, said: "The brake lights were not working properly and the car was also seen to swerve in the road."

On pulling her over, officers found Smith, of Ash Walk, had "slurred speech, smelt of alcohol and was unsteady on her feet".

She was breathalysed and a reading of 61 microgrammes of alcohol in 100 millilitres of breath came back – the legal limit is 35mgs.

Smith told police she had been to Fez Club beforehand where she had drunk two pints and had then dropped her friend off at home.

In court she admitted that she had also had three bottles of wine the evening before.

Presiding magistrate Ron Broadbent disqualified her for 17 months and ordered her to pay a fine of £85, court costs of £85 and a £20 victim surcharge.

Head teacher of new school meets parents

PLANS have been unveiled for a new free special school due to open in September and its head teacher has been appointed.

Georgina Ellis, currently head teacher at Wickhambrook Primary School, will head the Churchill School, which is to be built in the grounds of Samuel Ward Academy in Haverhill.

Mrs Ellis went along to a public meeting and exhibition held at Samuel Ward on Thursday, February 7 to meet local residents and parents of potential pupils.

The new school will open in September with 18 pupils, building up to its capacity of 70.

It will offer innovative education to pupils with speech, language, interaction and communication needs, including those with Autistic Spectrum disorders and Asperger's Syndrome.

Howard Lay, head of Samuel Ward, which received an outstanding OFSTED report last year, said: "The overall aim of CSFS is to fill a gap in special provision in the Haverhill locality, thus increasing the choices available to families and carers and improving the lives of local children and families.

"We aspire to provide outstanding teaching, intervention and support for pupils with language, communication and interaction difficulties."

Man arrested over imitation gun in row with ex-partner

Mini Cooper stolen

A MINI was stolen from outside a house where it was parked overnight. The green BMW Mini Cooper S, registration KW03 VRR, was stolen from a driveway on Recreation Road, Haverhill, between 5.30pm on Monday and 8am on Tuesday.

Anyone who was in the area, who saw the vehicle being moved, or has any information relating to the theft, should contact Suffolk Police on 101.

Warning: Insp Peter Ferrie.

ARMED police were called after a woman reported seeing her ex-partner with a gun in his pocket when they met on a garage forecourt.

The 27-year-old man from Haverhill was arrested in the town before the armed response vehicle had arrived from Bury St Edmunds, and he was cautioned for having a firearm in a public place.

Haverhill's sector commander Inspector Peter Ferrie said it was very unusual to see any firearms in the town but urged people not to carry any kind of weapons around.

The incident happened at the Jet Garage in Manor Road, Haverhill, at 8.15pm on Thursday.

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

It arose after a man saw his ex-partner at the garage and an argument developed.

She noticed that he had his hand on the handle of a gun which was sticking out of his pocket, and called the police.

Armed officers were called in, but before they arrived, a local sergeant detained the man.

Nothing was found at his home, but a BB gun was recovered from his mother's home.

The man admitted carrying the weapon with him and said he had it for protection because he thought someone was following him.

Inspector Ferrie said: "He did not threaten his ex-partner with it, but he had it with him in a public place and was cautioned for that.

"It just shows the huge risks from going round having an imitation firearm.

"If we had not caught him before the ARV arrived he would have been dealt with by armed officers.

"We treat all firearms incidents extremely seriously. You just don't know whether it is an imitation weapon or not.

"I have had firearms training and I would not have known the difference.

"The woman did not know whether it was real or not and she did the right thing by calling us straight away."

Flights approved at night

MORE lives will be saved as a local air ambulance charity is the first in the UK to get the go-ahead for night flying.

The East Anglian Air Ambulance (EAAA) is set to be the first helicopter ambulance service in England to start night time emergency medical services.

The life-saving charity has now been told that the European Aviation Safety Agency (EASA) has approved one of its aircraft for night vision goggles (NVG) operations to ground level.

At present, no air ambulance service in the UK is able to operate helicopter emergency medical service flights at night.

If there is a serious accident or medical emergency during the night, the emergency services must rely on land-based vehicles.

Dr David Zideman, clinical director for operations said: "This is an exciting time for the charity and our crews are working hard during this intensive training period.

"We are set to be the first to fly to the scenes of medical emergencies in the hours of darkness.

"We look forward to providing this enhanced service to the people of East Anglia."

Why no twins on our sign?

Sir, I am writing to say how shocked I was when I drove past the new Haverhill sign on the A143.

Why have the towns' names that we are twinned with not been put onto the new sign?

Town twinning is encouraged by St Edmundsbury Borough Council and I quote from their website: "Town twinning is widely recognised as an important aid to international understanding and friendship."

They also state that "it is clear that town twinning can make a distinctive contribution to cultural exchange". Can the people who took the decision to leave the details off of the new sign please tell the 60-odd members of the Haverhill Town Twinning Association why?

Manager appeals for shopmobility usage

A SHOPMOBILITY launched five years ago is being underused and more people are being encouraged to take advantage of it.

The Haverhill Shopmobility Scheme was launched in 2008 and was highly publicised. However, five years on, people are not making best use of the service run by Three Counties Transport – the community transport operator in the Haverhill area.

The group is now reminding people of the service and encouraging them to use it.

The scheme offers help to anyone who has difficulty getting around by loaning out electric scooters and wheelchairs. The scheme is open to people with either permanent or temporary mobility problems.

Lyn Burgess, Three Counties manager, said: "We know from research and activity from similar size towns that there is a demand for this service. We can only assume that people have either forgotten about it, think they do not qualify for it or they have never heard of it.

"We want to remind people of the service and encourage them to use it. The scheme is open to people with all forms of mobility problems ranging from serious, permanent conditions to those who may be temporarily impaired through injury or illness.

"Anyone wanting to use the scheme will be fully assessed for what equipment is best suited for them and then given training on how to use it."

The Shopmobility scheme is based at the council offices in Lower Downs Slade and registration is simple. Users need to take along two forms of identity, preferable one with a photograph, and pay a minimal fee.

More information on the scheme is available on (01440) 712028 or by email at lyn.burgess@suffolk.gov.uk

Social network crime increases

REPORTS of crimes and incidents involving Facebook and Twitter have increased dramatically in Cambridgeshire in just four years – with one of the latest leading to a dispute in Haverhill.

Last year there were 1,654 crime reports mentioning the social networking websites, latest police figures reveal.

The offences include posting menacing messages and sexual offences such as grooming.

And a Facebook dispute triggered a town centre face-off involving up to 70 youths.

The confrontation happened last month when a gang of youngsters from Cambridge travelled to Haverhill to meet a group of youths from the town, forcing Suffolk police to call in reinforcements.

Officers dispersed the gathering and 10 of the youngsters were taken back to Cambridgeshire by police.

Reports of Facebook being used as a backdrop for offences is a growing trend.

In 2008 there were just 64 reports of crimes, increasing to 299 in 2009.

The number leapt to 817 the following year and to 993 in 2011.

There has also been a sharp spike in reports of crimes on Twitter.

There were none in 2008, one in 2009, five in 2010, 16 in 2011 and 59 last year.

Meanwhile, recorded crimes have steadily fallen, from 65,122 in 2008 to 48,188 last year, figures released using freedom of information (FOI) laws have revealed.

A Cambridgeshire police spokesman said: "It is hard to quantify the actual increase in crimes involving social media. It is likely the numbers on FOI request relate to those crime files which 'mention' Twitter or Facebook, for which there could be a range of reasons – witnesses seeing something online, saying they were on a social media site at the time of the offence, had seen or heard a rumour on a site, seen a witness appeal on Facebook or Twitter.

"Obviously social networking sites have become hugely popular and simply because of the sheer number of people using sites such as Twitter and Facebook there will be a rise in incidents relating to those sites.

"The force uses Facebook and Twitter for a variety of reasons to prevent crime, target criminals and appeal for witnesses.

"It has proven particularly useful in targeting people who may not access traditional media.

"We can also use it as a monitoring tool in connection with ongoing investigations and operations."

Let's entertain: John Osborne will take to the stage. CP

Poet's Peel tribute

PERFORMANCE poet John Osborne will entertain pub regulars with his one-man show, John Peel's Shed, on Sunday, February 24.

The up and coming stand-up performance poet will provide a night of music, words and laughter at the White Horse Inn in Withersfield, near Haverhill, at 7.30pm.

The free show was organised in partnership with Creative Arts East and funded by Suffolk County Council, Arts Council England and Esmée Fairbairn Foundation.

Eleven years ago, John Osborne won a competition on John Peel's Radio One show. His prize was a box of records that took him eight years to listen to.

The one-man show is an ode to radio, those records and anyone who's ever sought solace in the wireless.

The performance is a must for John Peel fans and includes a selection of records previously owned by the late DJ, with many rare recordings by obscure and now defunct bands.

Guest speaker puts focus on key issues

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

THORNY issues such as pedestrianisation, school performance and transport links will be on the agenda when a top county official visits next week.

Deborah Cadman, OBE, chief executive of Suffolk County Council, will be guest speaker at the next bestofhaverhill meeting on Thursday, February 21 at Days Inn, Haverhill, from 10am to 11.30am.

Deborah is no stranger to Haverhill having worked in some of the leading organisations in the county for many years. She was the chief executive of St Edmundsbury Borough Council for six years before joining the East of England Development Agency (EEDA) as chief executive in 2008.

Talk: Deborah Cadman. CP

It was in that capacity that Deborah spoke at a bestofhaverhill event in November 2010. The appointment to the top role within Suffolk County Council came in October 2011.

Deborah will address some of the "hot topics" in the county including the recent report on school performance in Suffolk, the ongoing debate on pedestrianisation in Haverhill and the need for improved transport links.

She will also talk about Growth in Suffolk, the strategy that is being worked on in conjunction with the other borough and district councils.

The aim of the strategy is to deliver economic growth, create more jobs and increase prosperity.

Elaine Carr, owner of thebestofhaverhill, said: "It's a pleasure to be welcoming Deborah back to thebestofhaverhill."

"The difficult economic climate is causing many business owners to focus purely on the micro management of their businesses."

"It is good to have an opportunity to find out more about what is happening at a macro level within the environment that we're trading in, as this will obviously have an effect on our businesses in the medium and long term.

"Deborah is an excellent speaker and in the past has been a great advocate for Haverhill. I hope we will have good support for the event from local businesses and organisations."

"This is a great opportunity to hear first-hand about where Haverhill features in Suffolk County Council's plans for the future."

To attend this free event, call Elaine Carr on (01440) 710 158 or email Haverhill@thebestof.co.uk by Tuesday.

The event is open to any local organisations and you do not have to be a member of the bestofhaverhill to attend.

Pupils pack in quest to raise charity cash

PUPILS spent a morning packing bags for shoppers at their local supermarket to help raise money to boost a Breakfast Club.

Students from Castle Manor Academy in Haverhill went along to Sainsbury's to pack bags in exchange for donations from shoppers.

They raised more than £80 from their efforts, which will be used to buy goods for the breakfast club, to try to keep costs down.

The subsidised club operates every day at the school and offers a good value breakfast to any pupils who want one.

School bell ringing to unite classmates from 1993

FORMER classmates from 20 years ago are invited to get together for a school reunion next month.

The Castle Manor School Reunion Class of 1993 will take place on Friday, March 15 at 7.30pm at the Woolpack pub, Haverhill.

Tickets are £5 and organiser Tracy Connolly (nee Tobin) is hoping to get as many people as possible along. She said: "I have come to a standstill trying to contact old school friends. I have an event set up on Facebook and a lot of people are trying to spread the word but there are those few that are not using social media that we would like to try to get hold of."

For more information contact Tracy on 07686161335.

Fire service merger plan is scrapped

BY JENNIE BAKER

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

PROPOSALS for a merger between Cambridgeshire and Suffolk's fire and rescue services have been dropped for the moment.

The two counties' fire services had been investigating different options including the full combination of the forces in a bid to save money and protect the frontline.

But a full merger has been made "unviable at this time" because of issues including an "inconclusive" public consultation, according to Suffolk County Council, which said both services are committed to looking at other opportunities for closer working.

Cllr Colin Spence, cabinet member for public protection at Suffolk County Council, said: "It was important that we fully explored a potential merger to see how we might be able to build on the existing relationship between the two authorities."

"However, I was clear from the outset that we would only continue with plans for a full merger at this time if it was the right thing to do for the people of Suffolk."

A 12-week consultation which ended in January revealed 41 per cent of respondents were against a full merger versus 49 per cent who approved.

Another reason cited by the council for the unviability of a merger was that it was set to save less money than first thought.

The authority said the potential savings need to be weighed against the transitional costs of a merger and both services have already made significant efficiency savings in the last two years, including a combined saving of £800,000 per annum from merging the counties' 999 fire controls.

The difference between the council tax precepts for the fire services in the counties would make the process of equalising council tax tricky in the event of a merger, the council said.

It also cited as reasons for abandoning the merger the "considerable difference" in the levels of reserves held by the two forces and a lack of absolute assurance from the Department for Communities and Local Government that they would get the support needed for the change.

Cllr Fred Brown, chairman of the Cambridgeshire and Peterborough Fire Authority, said: "Both Suffolk and ourselves are in agreement that collaboration is the way forward at this stage."

Andy Fry, chief fire officer at Suffolk Fire and Rescue Service, said: "We have made significant savings through merging our control rooms and we will continue to try to identify further options to work together and share resources."

"I would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone connected with Suffolk Fire and Rescue Service for their ongoing commitment and dedication to protecting the people of Suffolk."

Top slimming honours for mum and daughter

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A MOTHER and daughter who lost 14 stones between them are hoping to encourage others to follow their lead.

Lynn and Hollie Bennington from Elmwell, Bury St Edmunds, shared the same problems with their weight.

Now after shedding the massive amount of weight with the help of their local Rosemary Conley Diet and Fitness Club, they have become even closer than ever.

The duo have been named Rosemary Conley Magazine Mother and Daughter Slimmers of the Year 2013.

Karen Perkins, who runs classes at Haverhill, Sible Hedingham and Bury St Edmunds, is hoping they will inspire others to join the ranks of her successful slimmers.

Karen, who has been running her classes for 17 years, is offering readers a free class, plus the magazine with Lynn and Hollie's full story in it. Her members have just entered a team for this year's Race for Life in June and hope to raise £2,013.

Mum Lynn, who used to weigh 16st 8½lb and wear a dress 22/24, shed 6st to wear a dress size 12/14. Hollie, who used to weigh 19st 10lb and wear a dress size 22/24, lost 7st 11lb to wear a dress size 12.

The mother and daughter are two of 12 Slimmers of the Year 2013 who have lost 102 stones between them.

Lynn and Hollie received their award – along with £1,000 – from Rosemary Conley, CBE, at a glittering ceremony held in London.

Lynn, 53, had been overweight for the last 20 years but it was only when Hollie, 23, decided she wanted to slim down, that Lynn went with her to their local Rosemary Conley class.

Lynn was working night shifts at a care home for the elderly, and she kept up a non-stop intake of chocolate, crisps and sugary or high-carb snacks. Her weight gave her lots of aches and pains and her ankles and legs would swell.

Hollie, who was a size 18 by the time she was 16, said: "When I was about 12, I ballooned massively.

"Bullies called me 'Bubbles' after a fat comedy character in Little Britain. Every day I'd have a sausage baguette with cheese – they were my addiction."

HAVERHILL. USA was privileged to welcome Mr Jimmy George to give an insight into the workings of Tattersalls, the leading bloodstock auctioneers in Europe.

To begin his very entertaining talk on January 27, he introduced members to Tattersalls with a short video of a recent auction of racehorses taking place in Newmarket.

Nine sales are held at Newmarket during the year, offering the best thoroughbreds in the world to buyers from more than 50 countries.

More than 10,000 catalogues are distributed and the internet is used to give worldwide coverage.

Richard Tattersall founded the company in 1766 with royal patronage, at a location close to Hyde Park Corner, then a suburb of London, where two rooms were reserved for The Jockey Club and betting men.

In 1865 at the end of the 99-year lease, the 'Old Tatt' firm was moved to Knightsbridge.

Bloodstock sales began at the 47-acre site in Newmarket in 1965, with horses priced still in guineas.

Facilities available at Park Paddocks include 850 boxes, five restaurants and two bars. In 2007, over 5,000 horses were sold for nearly a quarter of a billion Gns.

Recent results have shown a recovery from the financial uncertainties of 2008 and horse breeders' confidence is now increasing.

Mr George was willing to answer in-depth questions, also inviting members to attend any of the auction sales as an entertaining day out.

The next monthly meeting is on February 26 when Charlie Haylock will talk about the English Language and the Suffolk Dialect.

County appoints new police chief

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A NEW chief constable has been appointed for Suffolk.

Douglas Paxton, who has served in the force for 24 years, will take up the post on March 4 following the retirement of incumbent Chief Constable Simon Ash.

His appointment was announced last Friday by Police and Crime Commissioner (PCC) Tim Passmore, after careful scrutiny by the Police and Crime Panel.

Mr Passmore said: "I am very pleased to welcome Douglas Paxton as the next chief constable for Suffolk.

"Douglas impressed us with his sound knowledge of the county and all its different communities and businesses.

"His innovative approach to policing and partnership working will be particularly important as we work more closely with partners to get the very best value for the council tax payer."

Mr Paxton joined Suffolk Constabulary in 1989 and served in the county for 12 years. He rose to the rank of superintendent before serving as deputy area commander for the west of Suffolk.

He moved to West Midlands Police in 2002 where he worked in Birmingham city centre. Most recently he was deputy chief constable of Staffordshire.

Mr Paxton said: "I feel very honoured and delighted to be returning to the force I joined as a new recruit 24 years ago.

"I share a strong affinity with Suffolk and its people having spent 12 very happy and formative years of my early career serving its communities."

He added: "I look forward to working with Commissioner Passmore and I'm determined to build on the positive legacy and leadership of Chief Constable Simon Ash to make Suffolk an even safer place to live, work and visit."

Temporary Deputy Chief Con Paul Marshall will become temporary chief constable for the two weeks between Simon Ash retiring next Monday and Douglas Paxton taking up the post on March 4.

Waterhall's five-star hotel

LEAVING your pet while you go away can be a worry.

Whether it's just for the day while you're visiting family or for a fortnight while you get some summer sun, you want to know your dog or cat, or both, are safe and secure.

At Waterhall Boarding

Kennels and Cattery, your pet couldn't be in safer hands.

Located at Waterhall Farm in Wixoe, near Stoke-By-Clare, Mark and Shirley Stephens have been caring for people's cats and dogs at Waterhall Boarding Kennels and Cattery for more than two decades.

Over the years, the number and size of the kennels has grown considerably, and each kennel now boasts its own cosy, heated bed area with spacious run.

The kennels also have their own large grass compounds enabling your dog to get plenty of exercise and fresh air during his or her break.

It was in 2003 that a new custom-built cattery, Waterhall Lodge Cattery, was opened at the farm.

Again, the accommodation is designed to make your pet feel like it has gone from home to home, with spacious runs, ramps, play zones and private bed areas, all of which are fully insulated and heated.

Mark, Shirley and their team are able to care for your dog or cat, whatever their needs, whether it be with diet, behaviour or extra requirements.

They are also able to care for your small pets while you're away, such as rabbits, guinea pigs and hamsters.

But the services at Waterhall Farm don't end there.

Mark and Shirley have been a huge part of the doggy world for years and like to use their knowledge and expertise to help others as much as they can.

training classes at the farm for dogs of all levels. He has trained novice and open winners in field trials and represented his country in 1986 at the Landrover International British Gun Dog Team at the C.L.A. Game Fair.

Shirley also runs obedience, competitive, agility and flyball training classes, all of which can be done as a group or one-to-one, as well as a special Wild Wonder Dogs training class on a Wednesday evening, which is for agility dogs with a difference.

Shirley is also a qualified dog groomer and has all the facilities on site to make your pooch look his or her best.

As if that isn't enough,

Haven: Animals love their stay!

Waterhall Boarding Kennels and Cattery also help abandoned or stray dogs through its 'K9 Lifesavers' scheme, helping hounds in need and seeking out new homes for them.

Waterhall Boarding Kennels and Cattery really is a haven for dogs and cats of all shapes and sizes. Find them at Waterhall Farm in Wixoe, near Stoke-By-Clare, or call (01440) 762227.

Mark and Shirley are happy for people to tour their facilities at any time.

Caring: Shirley Stephens at their Wixoe site.

'I could have been dying and now I feel so alive'

Symptoms: Harriet Kelsall suffered shortage of breath and blackouts at the edges of her eyes.

Picture: Duncan Lamont 890507

When Cambridge jewellery designer Harriet Kelsall began feeling tired and short of breath, she put it down to the stresses and strains of everyday life. But when she was diagnosed with a life-threatening heart condition – and told she needed surgery that day – she had no time to fear the worst. Just two months on, she told her story to LOUISE MARTIN.

Enthusiastically chatting about her award-winning business, which she runs with husband Tim Alban, the mum of two is clearly passionate about what she does. In fact, Harriet is so full of life that if it wasn't for a very neat, pink scar running down her chest, you may not believe she underwent emergency open heart surgery just two months ago. "This is my first full day back and I just love it," she beams. "I feel 20 years younger and I'm not exaggerating."

When Harriet began feeling tired and short of breath last summer, she put it down to working too hard. "I thought I was just tired because I run a business and I've got two young kids," she explains. "I had no idea I was as ill as I turned out to be."

Born with a heart murmur,

Harriet, 41, was told she may need surgery in later life. "Lots of people have a heart murmur and mine was caused by a leaking mitral valve," she explains. "I was told only seven years ago that it was a very minor leak and that I might need surgery when I was 90, so I wasn't worried about it at all."

But last July, the jewellery designer, whose business is located on Cambridge's Green Street and in a converted barn in Weston, Hertfordshire, began feeling very unwell. "I was holding a children's jewellery making workshop at the school fete, at King's, where my son Thomas is at school, and all of a sudden this thing that had been happening a few times happened, which is where my heart would beat very fast to the extent where I felt I couldn't breathe. I started to notice a blackout happening around the edges of my eyes and I fainted."

Harriet was rushed to Addenbrooke's where a series of tests revealed the mitral valve leak had increased and that she would need surgery, possibly within the next two

By September, Harriet had experienced more of the scary episodes where her heart would beat dangerously fast. "I was worried about it happening when I was with the kids and then it did happen when it was just me with them," she remembers. "We were leaving for the school run and I started having one and I had to try to speak to my son, who's 7, to tell him he might have to call an ambulance, which is a horrible conversation to have to have. Luckily that one calmed down but it did make me think that things were getting significantly worse."

By October, Harriet's condition had declined further and she couldn't walk up the stairs without feeling very out of breath and in pain, or take her beloved walk through Cambridge. "My favourite time of the week is walking across Cambridge to the shop and I couldn't do it. I cross the river and come out on Trinity Street and I just love it, I love Cambridge; and then I couldn't do that walk and that was a bit of an eye-opener for me, I knew things were a lot worse than they were a couple of months ago."

Aware that surgery needed to be undertaken sooner than originally expected, Harriet was given an appointment with Dr Francis Wells, a consultant surgeon at Papworth Hospital, who specialises in mitral valve reconstruction. "I was so lucky because he is probably the best valve surgeon in the world," says Harriet. "I still can't get over my luck of living in Cambridge, and being in front of this man on the National Health Service."

"He looked at all the test results and then told me his waiting list was eight months but that I would need to be seen sooner than that."

Expecting to be called for surgery weeks, maybe a month later, Harriet and Tim were shocked when they received a call from Dr Wells the next morning asking Harriet to come in for surgery, that day. "I said 'how long have I got?' and he said 'no time'," remembers Harriet. "So I had to get there. I was on one phone trying to get my mum to come and look after the kids and Tim was on another cancelling my work. I had an appointment with the managing director of Warehouse and all these important things set up for that day and it all had to be cancelled."

Just a few hours later, on December 1, Harriet was being prepared for surgery. "I actually think I was incredibly lucky the way it happened because the reality of heart surgery is that it is full on and I didn't have time to think about that, I just had to get there. All I had time to focus on was 'are the kids going to be OK?' I couldn't even think 'what if I die?' I just didn't have time."

After five hours of intricate surgery, Harriet's mitral valve was repaired, but there was cause for concern when she experienced severe side effects to the pain relief and developed fluid on her lungs. "It was quite hard when I woke up because I had a tube down my throat, tubes coming out of my chest, pacemaker wires coming out of my flesh and I had a needle in my neck and wrist. I was in a terrible state and I remember not knowing where I was, or who I was. It was like I'd woken up in a film. It was bizarre."

Harriet responded well to treatment to remove the fluid on her lungs and three days after her life-saving heart surgery began to grow stronger. "I remember looking around me and thinking 'I feel better than I did before the surgery and that was only three days ago'. It didn't cross my mind before the surgery that I could die, but when I had that bad day with the fluid on the lungs I kept asking 'am I going to die?' and they were saying things like 'it's very hard to die at Papworth', which is true, but they didn't say 'no', so it was very frightening."

Just seven days after surgery, Harriet was allowed home. But instead of returning to her family home near Royston, she decided to stay with her parents while Tim looked after their young children: Thomas and 3-year-old Eleanor. "My daughter is full of bubbles and joy and as soon as I sit down she likes to jump on me, which is lovely, but she wasn't really old enough to understand that mummy's chest can't be jumped on at the moment, so I decided to stay with my mum and dad for a week and a half until I felt stronger."

During this time, Harriet's mum, Jane, persuaded her to write about her experience. "She convinced me it would be therapy," smiles Harriet. "I'm dyslexic and don't normally write very much but one day I started writing and I just couldn't stop. I wrote about everything I had been through, everything I had felt, everything I had thought, the bad days, the good days, how good it all was at Papworth and how brilliant the staff were."

"I wrote it all down like a maniac and by the end of it I felt really good and like that was going to allow me some closure on it, and to move on from it, instead of being in this weird sort of 'did that really happen?' shock mode."

Harriet is eternally grateful to the team at Papworth who, she says, not only saved her life through their expert skills and knowledge, but who aided her recovery through their team spirit. "I remember being at Papworth one night and hearing the nurses, just on their daily routines, saying 'oh, I'll get that for you' or 'I'm going down there, so I'll take that for you', and I remembered, although I didn't entirely know who I was at the time, that once I was like that with other people and that helped me to recover because I was able to recognise being in a team – and a good team – which is what it's like here."

Harriet has been told she will need no further treatment to her mitral valve and just two months since her life-saving operation she is feeling stronger and healthier every day.

"It's been an incredible, life-changing experience, to think I could have been dying and now I feel so alive. People use it as an expression but I honestly feel better now than I did 20 years ago."

"I feel so lucky to have been picked up by this amazing hospital system when I was and to have been so well looked after and, you know, I just had heart surgery, it's not going to be easy, but as heart surgery goes, it couldn't be better."

Centre lining up fun for half-term

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

RAFT building, cycling, film afternoons and crafts are just some of the activities on offer to amuse youngsters this half-term.

Haverhill Leisure Centre includes in its programme a chance for children aged 8 and over to build a raft with pieces of equipment and race against each other in the pool on Thursday, February 21.

British Cycling coach Mark Wyer will be leading a session full of obstacles and team pursuits on Monday.

The centre's popular holiday camps will also be running, with the addition of film afternoons and arts and crafts.

There will also be athletics, cycling, swimming, team sports, football, basketball, racket sports, laser blast, squash and tennis on offer.

The holiday camps for children aged 8 and over will take place every day from Monday to Friday, February 22 from 9am to 5pm.

Children can take part in the camps for a morning or afternoon, a whole day or even the whole week.

Amelia Epton, Abbeycroft's children and young people programme manager, said: "This year we have introduced film afternoons and arts and crafts to our popular holiday programme for 8-year-olds and over."

"We are also exploring the possibility of running camps specifically for children aged 6 to 7 and we would love to hear from parents whether this is something they would like at the centre."

The holiday camps cost £5 for a morning or afternoon session. For the whole day it costs £9.99 per child, add on lunch for £12.49 and £48 for the week, £60.50 including lunch.

Parents need to provide lunch and swimwear. Parents can take advantage of an early drop-off at 8.30am or late pick-up at 5.30pm for an extra £2.50 per child, booked in advance.

Bookings must be made in advance at the leisure centre or by calling (01440) 702548.

Visit Abbeycroft's website for more information at www.acleisure.com

To express an interest in seeing holiday camps for children aged six to seven at the centre email jake.batchelor@acleisure.com.

Party animals

FOLLOWING a triumphant West End season, Mike Leigh's classic comedy Abigail's Party has come to Cambridge this week.

It's the 1970s: Donna Summer is playing on the stereo. Dishes of cheese and pineapple are on the coffee table... and the social soiree from hell is about to begin.

Beverly and her estate agent husband Laurence have invited new neighbours Tony and Ange, along with nervous divorcee Sue, who is twitchy about the party her 15-year-old daughter, Abigail, is throwing over the road. As Beverly plies the guests with alcohol, cigarettes, Demis Roussos and nibbles, this horribly compelling evening descends into drunkenness and debauchery.

Leigh's excruciating demolition job on the pretensions of suburban social climbers became an instant classic when it first appeared as a BBC Play For Today in 1977, and this revival by Lindsay Posner – who also directed the recent all-star revival of Noises Off at the Old Vic – has been described as “a triumphant production” (Observer) and “a night of continuous guilty pleasure” (Telegraph).

The current tour stars Hannah Waterman, best known for her role as tragic Laura Beale in EastEnders. Since making her dramatic exit from the show, she has performed extensively in theatre productions, including Carrie's War and Calendar Girls (West End). She is joined by Martin Marquez, most recently seen in the West End in Billy Elliot and currently appearing on the big screen in Les Misérables, Samuel James, Katie Lightfoot and Emily Raymond.

Leigh is one of Britain's most influential theatre and film directors. His numerous awards include a Bafta for Outstanding

Contribution to Cinema, the National Society of Film Critics Award for Best Film for Life is Sweet, Best Director Award at Cannes Film Festival for Naked, the Palme d'Or at Cannes for Secrets and Lies and an Oscar for Topsy Turvy. His most recent play, Grief, visited Cambridge last year as part of a limited tour.

THEGUIDE SCREEN THEATRE EVENTS

Jake's making music

The name Jake Bugg wouldn't have meant much to music fans a year ago. Now the teen, who plays Cambridge this month, counts his hero Noel Gallagher among his fans. He talks to The Guide about a remarkable start in the industry.

THE chain of events that has catapulted 18-year-old Jake Bugg to the top of the album charts all started with an episode of The Simpsons. Jake was aged just 12 when he was captivated by what he heard while watching the animated comedy series.

"It's all Don McLean's fault," he says, referring to the guest star in that particular episode. "I heard his song Vincent, and that started me off."

Fired with enthusiasm for music, Jake was given a guitar by his uncle. Two years later, after much practice in his bedroom, he started writing his own songs, some of which feature on his chart-topping album.

"For the first few years I was just learning covers, but says there was always music playing at home when he was growing up.

"Some of it was good, some of it was shocking. My mum was always listening to Take That or something that I hated. People seem to think I'm a massive Bob Dylan fan, but I've not really listened to him that much, and my parents never did. I know his first album and the famous tracks, like

IN TUNE: Jake Bugg plays the Corn Exchange later this month.

Subterranean Homesick Blues, but not much. It's a strange comparison."

A performance at Glastonbury in 2011 on the BBC's Introducing stage, where unsigned musicians can show off their skills, led to a recording contract with Mercury. Less than a year later, thanks to a performance on Later... With Jools Holland, Bugg had arrived.

"It was all pretty chaotic after that TV appearance," says Bugg, who is clearly still adjusting to his meteoric rise to fame. Several of his songs hark back to growing up on a housing estate in Clifton, Nottingham, with references to drug use, trouble with the police and generally getting up to no good in car parks on a Friday evening.

He smiles when it's mentioned, but says his beginnings were no more or less traumatic than anyone else's. "It's been massively exaggerated, I think," he says.

"It was no picnic, but it's not as bad as some people would have you believe. It's not easy living on a council estate, it has its bad points as well as good. A lot of my songs are about escaping those streets, but it's not just me, it's for anyone in a similar situation.

"My family wanted me to get a job after school, or carry on with education, but that's just life. You've got to be able to feed yourself, but it was my uncle who really pushed me to music. I thought it was better not to have the safety net of education or anything, because it'll keep motivating me to write better songs.

"But at the same time, I don't think an education would be a bad thing to fall back on. My mum was a singer so I think she's really pleased for me, doing what she wanted to do. I don't know how successful I'll be making my escape, but I don't think about that stuff too much. At the moment I'm just concentrating on performing and writing more songs, and we'll see where all this takes me."

So far, his songs have taken him all over Europe as Noel Gallagher's support on the European leg of his world tour.

Gallagher saw Jake's appearance on Later and decided he had to hear more. The ex-Oasis star trawled YouTube looking for more videos, and decided then and there that he wanted Jake to go on tour with him.

Gallagher recently talked of how he was blown away by Jake's natural talent. "He's from that naturally gifted school of musicians," he says.

"Jake picked up a guitar and virtually the next day comes out sounding like Donovan. I'm from the other side of things, where I have to graft and graft. It's annoying, but best of luck to him."

When the compliments from Gallagher are relayed to Jake, he seems embarrassed, saying: "Noel's an idol of mine, so to hear something like that blows me away. It's enough that he's even heard of me, let alone go out of his way to ask me to go on tour with him."

He wasn't really sure what to expect from the tour's opening dates. "I'd never been out of the UK before this year – and now I've been to Germany five times and France three times, plus loads of other places. It was incredible. We played 8,000-seat venues each night, and everyone came in to watch me. It's not like when you support someone in the UK and everyone's in the bar until the main act comes on. There was this one night in Italy, in Florence I think, where you could hear a pin drop as I was playing. Then, during one song, everyone just started applauding and cheering spontaneously. It was an amazing feeling."

Jake has recently toured the US and Canada with Gallagher and Snow Patrol before setting out on his own UK tour, which comes to Cambridge Corn Exchange this month. To cap a remarkable year, Jake's eponymous debut entered the album chart at No 1 after facing fierce competition from Leona Lewis's third album. "I didn't think my album would even get in the top 40, to be honest," he says.

"So to hear that I was battling Leona Lewis for No.1 was pretty mad. I couldn't really ask for any more."

The big film

THIS IS 40 certificate 15, 2h13m

SINCE the release of The 40-Year-Old Virgin in which Steve Carell famously had his chest waxed on camera, writer-director Judd Apatow has become synonymous with rumbustious yet touching comedies which explore the foibles of the human condition. Knocked Up refracted a traditional boy meets girl scenario through the prism of unexpected parenthood. Then Funny People reunited a beleaguered stand-up comedian with his estranged family in the shadow of terminal illness.

In This Is 40, Apatow revisits characters from Knocked Up to explore the reality of married life for a middle-aged couple who have lost that loving feeling. Pete (Paul Rudd) and Debbie (Leslie Mann) have raised two beautiful daughters – 13-year-old Sadie (Maude Apatow) and eight-year-old Charlotte (Iris Apatow) – but are now stuck in a rut. Sadie is going through a difficult phase, clashing with her parents about her addiction to her favourite television show. Meanwhile, precocious tyke Charlotte is upset by all of the screaming and shouting in the house. As Debbie goes into denial about turning 40 in the very same week that Pete celebrates the same milestone, husband and wife re-evaluate their stagnating marriage. They decide an emotional spring clean is in order, which has dramatic repercussions for Pete's cash-strapped father (Albert Brooks) and Debbie's employees (Megan Fox, Charlyne Yi) at her upscale clothing boutique, one of whom is dipping her polished nails into the till.

This Is 40 hopes to recapture the sentimental glory of Knocked Up but lightning doesn't strike twice, although it's close. Laughter and tears are weighted heavily in favour of the former with some very funny interludes.

However, the characters' various emotional crises scream out for resolution well before Apatow decides that he's had his fill.

Rudd and Mann – Apatow's real-life wife – are an attractive pairing and scenes of them bickering are galvanised by wonderful on-screen chemistry and a sharp script. Casting Mann's daughters Iris and Maude adds to the realism of the dysfunctional on-screen family unit.

A scene-stealing cameo from Melissa McCarthy (Bridesmaids) delivers big laughs and Jason Segel and Chris O'Dowd catalyse an amusing rivalry for Fox's affections.

Regrettably, brevity is not the soul of Apatow's wit. Where one snappy scene would suffice, the writer-director opts for protracted navel-gazing until we, like Pete and Debbie, begin to lose faith in the central relationship.

At an exhausting 133 minutes, the film could arguably be re-titled This Is 40 Minutes Too Long.

Leaf through top titles

IF YOU'RE still scratching your head as to what to do with your garden this year, whether trying veg in pots for the first time, creating a wildflower meadow or completely relandscaping your outdoor space, there are new books coming out which should provide you with plenty of ideas.

Here are just a few of the many gardening titles on offer this year.

■ The Drunken Botanist by Amy Stewart (Timber Press, £14.99, May 2) This intoxicating and eclectic new book on the hidden botany behind your favourite booze would make a fabulous gift for gardeners who enjoy a tipple. The quirky guide explains the chemistry and botanical history of more than 150 species, showing how they form the bases of our favourite cocktails and also offers 50 drink recipes.

■ Christine Walkden's No-Nonsense Container Gardening (Simon & Schuster, £20, February 28) She may now be a regular on The One Show and Radio 4's Question Time, but Christine Walkden is a gardener first and a presenter second. In her typical down-to-earth style, she shows you how to recycle tin cans, fruit crates and baskets and turn them into portable growing containers, grow your own lunch in a tub with dwarf varieties and cultivate abundant flowers for cutting and fragrance. Well illustrated and with tips from personal experience, this book will suit the fairly new gardener looking for new ideas.

by Hannah Stephenson

■ Royal Horticultural Society Grow Your Own Crops In Pots by Kay Maguire (Mitchell Beazley, £16.99, available now) As growing your own fruit and veg continues to gain popularity, this book is one for people who perhaps don't have room for a vegetable plot or who simply want to have a go at growing produce in pots on the patio, close to the kitchen. Featuring everything from bags of potatoes to grapes on the vine, and delicious combinations such as tomato with basil, the book guides the reader through techniques and tips, as well as sound advice for growing each type of fruit and veg.

■ A Book Of Garden Wisdom by Jenny Hendy (Lorenz Books, £5.99, May 31) If you like to hark to days gone by and restore some traditional methods of gardening on your plot, this delightful book of folklore, organic gardening, hints and tips featuring traditional techniques for sowing, planting and harvesting, as well as age-old methods for controlling pests and diseases, feeding the soil and caring for tools, should fit the bill.

■ RHS Chelsea Flower Show: A Centenary Celebration by Brent Elliott (Frances Lincoln, £25, April 4) Chelsea Flower Show's centenary couldn't go without a commemorative book and this offering, by the RHS historian Brent Elliott, explores how the show evolved, how it has formed part of the social calendar and how it has reflected and shaped tastes in garden design and planting over the years. There are short pieces by significant nurserymen and nurserywomen, designers, organisers, visitors and patrons describing what Chelsea means to them, with chapters on the early shows, shows between the wars and decade by decade to the present day. It's illustrated with images mainly drawn from the RHS Lindley Library archives, many of which are published here for the first time.

■ Abundance: How To Store And Preserve Your Garden Produce by Alys Fowler (Kyle Books, £16.99, June 1) If you're growing fruit and veg then you may want to learn how to preserve it. Look no further than this guide from the former Gardeners' World presenter, who covers everything from drying and pickling to cold stores and fermenting.

■ Wild Flowers by Carol Klein (BBC Books, £20, February 28) Master plantswoman and Gardeners' World presenter Carol Klein celebrates the most exquisite flora growing wild in our woodlands, hedgerows, meadows and moors in this book and then returns to her own garden to see their cultivated cousins. This tie-in book sees Klein delving into the story of more than 30 of her favourite wild flowers, and sharing her practical expertise and suggestions on how to help their cultivated equivalents thrive.

■ The Rurbanite by Alex Mitchell (Kyle Books, £16.99, March 1) Do you live in the city but dream of keeping chickens? Do you look at derelict patches of ground on your way to work and see their potential as vegetable patches? If so, you're a rurbanite. You have a passion for the countryside but no intention of leaving the city. Don't worry, you're not alone. You're part of a growing band of people who want the best of both worlds. The author shares her passion, practical projects and incredible stories from seed bombers, rooftop beekeepers, guerrilla gardeners and urban farmers to inspire you to be in touch with your green side and change the cityscape for the better.

COVER STORIES: just three of the titles that can provide great tips for gardeners.

YOUR GUIDE TO MOVING HOME

1 Moving home can be a complicated business and, in the hectic run to the big day, it is all too easy to forget something vital. The Property News offers their readers this handy checklist that should help avoid major pitfalls. We suggest you tick off the items as you deal with them...

WITH FOUR WEEKS TO GO:

- Get estimates from removal companies, checking that comprehensive insurance cover is available against damage or loss. Is there a packing and unpacking service? Confirm the date of your move with the firm you have chosen.
- Check on your home contents insurance policies to ensure that you are covered for the move, and covered at your new address.
- Make arrangements for your gas and electricity meters (plus water meters where relevant) to be read and all your appliances to be disconnected on the day of your move.
- Arrange to take over gas and electricity at your new address, and make sure that all appliances will be properly fitted, plumbed or connected.
- Notify British Telecom and ask them to make the necessary arrangements for a final account at your present address, and for taking over or installing telephone facilities at your new home.
- Arrange for change of address cards to be printed.

WITH TWO WEEKS TO GO:

- Confirm all arrangements, times etc, for meter readings, disconnections and reconnections, with authorities and with your buyer and seller.
- Make sure you have a good stock of packing materials, including sturdy boxes and plenty of string and sticky tape.
- Begin to throw out unwanted items from attics, wardrobes. What you really don't want you may as well dump now, or send to charity. It's a great time for a good sort out!

WITH ONE WEEK TO GO:

- Send off change of address cards.
- Arrange and pay for automatic redirection of your mail by the Post Office.
- Cancel and pay up accounts for routine delivery services such as milk, groceries, fuel and your Cambridge Evening News. Re-organise these deliveries for your new address.
- Defrost refrigerators in preparation for move and, if you are moving a freezer and its contents, turn it up to maximum for a couple of days before you move.

WITH ONE DAY TO GO:

- Complete your packing except for those items you are likely to need overnight, and prepare a picnic for moving day.
- Have a large enough cash 'float' available to deal with unexpected expenses, and make sure you have collected documents and valuables together in a safe place.
- Cover carpets which are being left behind, so as to minimise damage during furniture removal.
- Check through previous lists to make sure nothing has been overlooked, then enjoy a worry-free early night!

2 ON MOVING DAY:

- Strip beds and pack bedding and nightclothes.
- Pack items for washing/toiletries.
- Take down curtains.
- Take up rugs, carpets, floor coverings, as required.
- Dismantle any light fittings etc., not included in the sale.
- Turn off electric appliances.
- Disconnect cooker.
- Turn off boiler/central heating.
- Turn off water.
- Read gas meter.
- Read electricity meter.
- Secure all windows.
- Lock all doors.
- Leave key as arranged with new owners.

Audi A8 the limelight

Limo's star shines at BAFTAs

THE Audi luxury car that whisked many of the stars of stage, screen and TV to the red carpet this week for the 2013 EE British Academy Film Awards (the BAFTAs) has just attracted some limelight of its own.

The long wheelbase A8 L has been voted "Chauffeur Car of the Year" in the £50,000 to £75,000 category by leading online industry magazine thechauffeur.com.

This year's Chauffeur Car of the Year category award is the third for the opulent long wheelbase luxury saloon, which also took the top spot in 2005 and 2011. It was bestowed not just on the strength of the car itself, but also by virtue of the successful Audi UK chauffeur programme through which professional drivers can run one on a contract hire basis and benefit from exceptional support.

Paul Gibson, editor of thechauffeur.com, commented: "The A8 L offers the chauffeur an excellent all-round package.

Excellent economy, comfort, all-wheel drive and workable boot space are key factors which helped it clinch the award."

He added: "When putting it against its competitors, it was also obvious that the manufacturer's dedicated chauffeur programme is one of the best in the marketplace."

James Douglas, head of fleet sales at Audi UK, added: "I am delighted that thechauffeur.com not only believed the A8 was deserving of such a hard fought award, but also saw fit to commend the Audi chauffeur programme which provides access to it. We have gone to great lengths to structure a programme which we believe makes obtaining and running one of our luxury cars as stress-free as driving one, and it is immensely encouraging to know that this specialist title views it so positively."

The excellent economy which was instrumental in the latest victory for the A8 L is commonly associated with the TDI versions, but it can now also be enjoyed in petrol models with even lower CO2 output and the potential for zero emissions driving – the A8 hybrid and A8 L hybrid.

Powered by a 2.0-litre TFSI four cylinder petrol unit working in conjunction with a 40 kW electric motor, the A8 L hybrid can drive using electric power alone at speeds of up to 62mph. When outright performance takes precedence, outputs of 245 PS and 480 Nm enable acceleration from zero to 62mph in 7.9 seconds and a top speed of 142mph. At the same time, equally important running costs can be kept in check thanks to the potential for in excess of 44 mpg, equating to CO2 emissions of 149g/km – the lowest in the A8 L range.

In common with all A8 L models, the hybrid adds 130mm of extra leg room for rear seat passengers, and expands the lavish A8 equipment list to include features such as heated front and outer rear seats, electric sun blinds and deluxe four-zone climate control.

Prices start at £57,650 for the A8 L SE, rising to £95,440 OTR for the flagship 6.3-litre W12 quattro. The A8 L hybrid is priced at £65,545.

Nissan all set to unveil the 370Z Nismo

THE second member of Europe's new Nissan Nismo range has been revealed – the 370Z Nismo.

Closely following the Juke Nismo, the 370Z Nismo shows what the ultimate Z has to offer and the thrilling coupe has been unveiled ahead of its public debut at the Geneva Motor Show in March.

Featuring dramatic styling with red Nismo design signatures it also packs increased power and improved aerodynamics.

Available only as a coupe with a six-speed manual gearbox, the 370Z Nismo features extensive engineering and styling enhancements.

Just like the Juke Nismo, every change over the standard 370Z has been carefully considered and based on Nismo's motorsport experience. Design modifications have been driven by aerodynamic improvement.

The front end features a more aggressive design improving airflow under the car, leading to improved stability at higher speeds and through corners. This additional downforce is complemented by an extensively re-engineered suspension and chassis set-up, enhancing stability and handling on both road and track.

Thanks to Nismo tuning, the Z's 3.7-litre V6 engine delivers 344PS, up from 328PS in the standard car, while torque increases from 363Nm to 371Nm. The result is improved responsiveness across the low and mid rev range, and a 0-62mph time of only 5.2 seconds (a tenth of a second faster than the standard 370Z, subject to homologation).

Watch this space for prices!

Style: The 370Z Nismo's 0 to 60mph time is just 5.2 seconds.

Cambridge Valet Centre chipping away at 2013

CAMBRIDGE VALET CENTRE has moved into new premises on King's Court Industrial Estate which backs into the rear of Cambridge Science Park, writes Mike Scialom.

The site is operating in conjunction with the Cambridge branch of the national franchise Chips Away, the express bodyshop, and comprises nine bays, a state-of-the-art spray booth, shot blasting machinery for alloy wheel restoration and a vehicle lift designed with prestige cars in mind.

As well as the King's Hedges premises, Cambridge Valet Centre founder Simon Walters also runs a sister company, Crystal Valeting, which has two current mobile units covering Essex, Hertfordshire and Cambridgeshire.

"Our aim was always to offer an all-round automotive care solution to our clients and since moving from our Hills Road site last year we have been able to offer a more extensive range of services in optimum conditions for all types of vehicle," says Simon.

"Being on site with Chips Away's premium paint

technicians means that customers can now get all the quality care services they could possibly require in one place."

Cambridge Valet Centre's prices start at £25 for a mini-elite valet and go up to an elite revival paint restoration detailing package which starts at £750. The mobile prices range from £25 to £299.99 and the service is available seven days a week. The mobiles are fully equipped with their own water and electricity as well as major and minor scratch repair facilities.

"There are a number of ways you can care for your car from home before you need to come and see us," says Simon. "Always ensure you rinse your car down before washing – it loosens bond-on dirt and grime and reduces the amount of surface damage caused during the wash process – and adding a coat of wax every few months will ensure that any damaged areas will age slower until they can be repaired."

The centre is now using Dodo Juice's new Iron Gloss Sealant, which is the trade's premium new nano-sealant. The product locks in a high-quality finish, protecting it against the elements.

Cambridge Valet Centre can be contacted on 0800 032 2918 or at www.cambridgevaletcentre.com.

New Outlander is on sale

MITSUBISHI Motors has launched the all-new, third generation Mitsubishi Outlander.

Achieving an impressive five-star Euro-NCAP safety rating, with new features such as City Crash Provision and the improvement of Mitsubishi's existing safety system "RISE" as standard, the new vehicle also boasts a new range topping GX5 derivative with Lane Departure Warning, Forward Collision Mitigation and Adaptive Cruise Control technology.

The new Outlander is available with one engine option only – a redeveloped version of the established and technologically advanced Mitsubishi 2.2-litre 16V DOHC diesel engine, which now produces improved low-end torque, superior fuel economy, class leading CO2 emissions of just 138g/km of CO2 and easily meets the latest Euro 6 emission standards.

Prices start at £24,224 for the GX1 4Work and rise to £33,999 for the GX5. Call Mitsubishi Motors on (01223) 832412 for details.

You will be responsible for the production of high quality Electrical and Electronic components, looms and assemblies within the time scales set, to required specifications using Autospot or Aerospace connectors, MIL spec wiring, and heat shrink moulded parts. In this role you will also work closely with the Electronics Production Team Leader assisting with day-to-day task planning while providing leadership, mentoring and technical support to the Electrical Technicians.

It is essential for the successful applicant to have strong leadership and organisational skills, with the ability to work closely with other team members, and enjoy the challenge of working in a high pressured, time sensitive environment. As a requirement for this position you will need previous experience in a Motorsport (ideally Formula One) build environment, with a BTEC NC in Electrical or Electronic Engineering (or equivalent).

HR27111201 - ELECTRICAL TECHNICIAN

We are currently seeking an Electrical Technician to maintain and develop our on-car wiring systems and garage based Electrical equipment.

Ideally you will have experience in a Motorsport or Aerospace environment, and you will be able to demonstrate a high level of commitment, coupled with excellent interpersonal skills. You will work to exceptional standards whilst under pressure, using your thorough knowledge of cutting edge Electrical/Electronic installations, Autospot or Aerospace connectors, MIL spec wiring and heat shrink moulded parts.

To apply, please email recruitment@redbullracing.com quoting the above reference number and attaching your CV and covering letter including details of your current salary.

Closing date for applications - 28th February 2013

Tofts off the mark in four-star display

Mildenhall Tn 0 Kedington 4
CAMBRIDGE & DIST COLTS LEAGUE, UNDER-15A

JOE Tofts scored his first goal for the club as Kedington returned from Mildenhall with all three points.

The visitors elected to play with the wind and dominated from the start, but were unable to capitalise on several early chances as the Mildenhall keeper refused to be beaten.

Tofts changed all that when Ty Alleyne chased a long fall and pulled it back to George Mustoe, who set up Tofts to find the net.

It remained 1-0 at the break, and the hosts re-started in positive mood, threatening to get back on terms.

However, a quick break, starting with Sam Street breaking up an attack, led to Leon Bailey timing a pass for Jason Moore to beat the offside trap and double Kedington's lead.

Two became three as Cameron Larkin and Kieran Harrison combined for man of the match Steve Boyles to pick his spot.

And the scoring was completed when Ellis Wiffen arrived in the box to get on the end of a move and find the net.

Huntingdon Rowdies 3 West Wrattling 2
CAMBRIDGE & DIST COLTS LEAGUE, UNDER-13A

ROWDIES completed a season double over Wrattling in testing conditions.

Despite early pressure, Wrattling found themselves two goals adrift as a clinical Rowdies side took their chances.

But an own goal and a well taken shot by Ronnie Ledwith – saw them go into half time level.

The second half saw Wrattling struggle to keep possession playing into the wind, and Rowdies got the crucial goal when a striker pounced on a loose ball in the Wrattling defence.

Red Lodge 3 Aztecs White 5
UNDER-NINE FRIENDLY

AZTECS ended the three-year unbeaten record of Red Lodge in a match of high quality.

The visitors started well and made the breakthrough after 12 minutes when Jordan Chippis broke through from midfield and tucked the ball away. He doubled his tally moments later from close range.

Red Lodge then came storming back with two goals in as many minutes, the second a blockbuster from 20 yards.

Aztecs were undeterred and quickly restored the two-goal cushion as first Lloyd Blackburn finished well from an angle and then Freddie Hounsborne tucked the ball home from a right wing cross to make it 4-2 at half time.

Red Lodge started the second half strongly and, after a fine save from Oliver Scroggie, reduced the deficit to 4-3 with a good team goal to set up a thrilling final quarter.

The home side took the gamble of pushing an extra player up front, and both sides attacked at will. But the key goal went to Aztecs as Adden Tokley's curled effort came off the inside of the post and just bounced over the line.

Red Lodge pushed forward in vain to try to salvage something from the game and Aztecs caught them on the break several times and should have increased their lead with Chippis, Hounsborne and Tokley all missing good opportunities.

■ Josh Lee and Jack Lisher struck as West Wrattling won 2-0 against Chatteris Town in Cambs Mini League, Division 11B.

» In brief

■ BASKETBALL: Samuel Ward Academy's under-13 basketball team are celebrating an unbeaten season so far, culminating in becoming county champions.

The team topped their group to reach the semi-finals, where they beat Copleston 48-33.

In a nerve-wracking final against Great Cornard, Samuel Ward prevailed 32-26 to seal the county crown.

The squad (pictured) go through to represent Suffolk in the regional finals.

Grice is right . . .

■ MARTIAL ARTS: Justin Grice won two gold trophies at the Norfolk Open ITF Taekwondo Championships held at Downham Market.

The eight-year-old from Haverhill was first in the under 125cm junior coloured belt sparring and special technique events.

Grice, who trains at the Mid Anglia School of Taekwondo with Master Derek Blackburn, currently holds a blue belt.

For more information about the school, contact Master Blackburn on 07930 927163.

Alex is top brother

■ TABLE TENNIS: Brothers Alex and Sam Horscroft, from Haverhill, met in the restricted singles final at the Cambridge & District Table Tennis League tournament at St Neots.

And it was Alex who ran out the winner in straight games – 11-9, 12-10, 11-6.

But he was beaten by St Neots' 15-year-old Adam Jepson in the junior boys' singles in five games, losing 7-11, 11-5, 11-8, 8-11, 3-11.

Calmet beats frost to claim the title

PAULINE Calmet won the Ladies Stableford at Haverhill Golf Club, played on temporary greens and as a non-qualifier because of heavy frost.

Calmet scored 28 points to win by two from Gerrie Wheatley, with Jackie Condon third with 24.

Hayden Durrant came out on top in the Junior Medal with a very commendable round of 81-10-71 in wintry conditions.

Second was Michael Perrett with 80-5-75 (lowest gross) and third was Daniel Walker with 104-27-77. The best score for the girls was Nicole Pike who finished fourth overall with a nett score of 80.

Haverhill Ladies, captained by Sheila Price, were beaten in their first-round Mail on Sunday tie away to Bury St Edmunds.

Eamonn Bareham and Mich Calmet of Haverhill finished third in the Fourball Betterball Stableford at the Suffolk Winter Alliance event at Southwold.

They scored 38 points to finish two behind the pairing of John Williams (Stoke-by-Nayland) and David Yates (Braintree).

Over and Lought for Haverhill

Old Loughtonians II 6 Haverhill 0
EAST WOMEN'S LEAGUE, DIVISION 2SW

PLAYING on the Olympic training surface could not inspire Haverhill as they fell to defeat against their second-placed opponents.

The visitors won only one short corner all match against superior opponents and are now targeting victories in their upcoming home matches in their battle to avoid relegation.

"We didn't get a look-in," admitted captain Tina Bunch. "We came up against another class act and they were more used to the water-based surface than we were."

"It was still quite an experience to play on the Olympic surface."

Haverhill host Royston on Saturday.

■ Haverhill II enjoyed an impressive 5-0 win against Ipswich-East Suffolk II in the Suffolk League, Premier Division.

It was not long before Bryony Hammatt found the net, and players of the match Jane Farrow and Vicky Coke then followed suit and made it 3-0 at half time.

Shortly into the second half, a cross into the D ensured Cara Ainsworth scored her first goal of the season to make it 4-0.

The scoring was finished with a second goal from Hammatt. Haverhill remain in the bottom three but only three points from safety. They travel to Framlingham II on Saturday.

Road to Hell proves worthwhile for Jack

HAVERHILL runner Jack Tappin went to Hell and back in the name of athletics.

Representing Haverhill Running Club, Tappin completed the eight-mile Hell in the Middle endurance race in Trentham Gardens, Stoke on Trent, in a time of 1hr 41min 33sec.

The route – part of the Hell Runner series – consisted of scaling and descending numerous hills, wading through neck-deep mud and water and cross-country running.

He ran most of the way alongside Ewelina Stachowiak and Steven Cockburn, both from Winsford, Cheshire, who finished in 1:41.36 and 1:55.00 respectively.

Pictured are Tappin (left) with his running companions Cockburn and Stachowski. CP

Lansdowne double tips the balance

Haverhill 25 Felixstowe 16

GREENE KING IPA EASTERN COUNTIES LEAGUE, DIVISION TWO

MICKY Lansdowne scored two tries to swing the match for Haverhill, but the hosts also showed their bad side with a red card and a high penalty count.

After a poignant minute's silence in memory of club stalwart Ian Wade, Haverhill made a strong start and two Adam Hunt penalties on 10 and 20 minutes saw them 6-0 in front.

However, an attempt to throw a clever pass inside their 22 saw a Felixstowe player intercept and run in for a converted try.

James Craig was showing great maturity at scrum-half, and it was his quick hands that set Simon Potter charging on 30 minutes. Potter's perfectly timed pass allowed skipper Hunt to smash his way through 30 metres of defence and over the line to make it 11-7, his conversion slipping past the wrong side of the post.

Haverhill's indiscipline presented the visitors with another penalty, but again nice hands from Craig released Lansdowne to crash over for a try which Hunt converted to make it 18-10 at the break.

Ricky Brown came on for Harry Marsh at the interval, his first outing since breaking his hand three months earlier, but Haverhill struggled to get going in the face of a mounting penalty count against them.

The key score came on 55 minutes, when a speculative Potter kick was chased by man of the match Lansdowne, who gathered and scored. Hunt's conversion made it 25-10.

It looked as if the hard work had been done, but yet more penalties in kickable positions saw Felixstowe narrow the gap to 25-16.

Haverhill did not help themselves when Dan Bishop, who had been replaced by Marsh, returned to the pitch to get involved in an altercation and was red-carded, but the hosts held on.

It takes two: Gian Paolo Nash requires two Felixstowe players to stop his attacking run. CP

Weaver quick out of blocks

Heddinghams Utd 1 Haverhill Sports Association 5
ESSEX & SUFFOLK BORDER LEAGUE

HSA hit five for the second successive week to move up to fourth in the Premier Division table.

The away side got off to a flying start when Tom Lock played in Ryan Weaver and the lively striker lobbed Bouttill in the Heddinghams goal after only two minutes.

Weaver was denied another goal by the linesman's flag soon afterwards, and a period of sloppy play ended with an equaliser with a great strike across Liam Cutts from the edge of the box.

HSA were on the back foot but managed to regain the initiative halfway through the period when Adam Palmer's perfectly weighted ball allowed Craig Cutts to round the keeper and fire home past a couple of recovering defenders.

The rest of the half was easily forgettable on a tricky pitch, but HSA improved after the break and created plenty of chances, with Weaver, Cutts, Palmer and Micheal Austin all going close.

With 15 minutes to go the points were all but sealed as Tommy Hardwick fed Weaver who picked out Ben Bradley arriving at the far post, and the winger's half-volley was just good enough to beat Bouttill.

Weaver added his second from the penalty spot after the impressive Paul Hunt was tripped with five minutes to go, before Owen Longley scored his first goal of the season, firing into the bottom corner.

HSA now have three successive home games starting with Lawford on Saturday.

Kieron takes Rovers helm

ALI Shulver has stepped down as interim manager of Haverhill Rovers with immediate effect, swapping places with coach Kieron Hammatt at the Thurlow Nunn League, Premier Division club.

Shulver took over from Peter Betts in November with a view to taking the job on until the end of the season.

But after working with Hammatt for the past two months, Shulver recommended to Haverhill's board that they give him the job for the rest of the season, with the possibility of taking the role on full time for the 2013/14 campaign.

Shulver will continue to work with the first team as assistant manager, with the club set to make a decision on whether to offer Hammatt the job on a permanent basis at the end of the season.

"Kieron has been working alongside me for a while and he's one of the applicants for the job," said Shulver. "I recommended to the committee he should do the job for the rest of the season and use it as a job interview."

"The club's in a win-win situation because if he does well then we've found a manager for next season, and if not then we've still got our options open. I'll swap places to assist him, being the link between the dugout and the committee."

Hammatt added: "I'm excited about it. I've got until the end of the season to make the job my own."

"Ali and the committee have been great with the support they've shown me. I know I have the backing of the players so hopefully we can turn out some good performances and have a good time on the way."

"I don't really want to change anything in the squad. What I do want to bring to the team is consistency."

"We've got great characters in the team, great camaraderie and a good team spirit. Once we match that with our performances, the results will start to come."

Shulver's last match in charge was at Wisbech Town on Saturday, when Rovers twice fought back to earn a point.

Jack Wilkinson got Rovers' first equaliser when he cut in from the left-hand side and found the bottom corner.

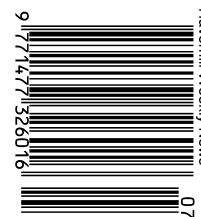

And Stuart Kingham levelled things up for a second time when he made a late run to the back post from a deep free kick and beat the goalkeeper with a side-footed finish.

"We went there with a makeshift side, so it was a really good result," said Shulver.

Rovers are at home to Stanway on Saturday.
